$10 Bargain in Coats Just 50 Coats $10

We wanted to make tomorrow the biggest Saturday we ever experienced. So, we went through our stock of Women's Coats and selected just 50 coats to sell tomorrow at $10.00 each. Each one of the 50 is worth considerably more than $10.00.

These are full length coats, just the coats for business, shopping, traveling and all practical "going about." They are semi-fitted models, many in the belted effect. Made of hard finished durable worsteds—plain colors as well as the mixed effects. Some coats have fancy collars, but most of them are trimmed only in big buttons.

Come early tomorrow morning and see these coats. Though they are worth considerably more, tomorrow $10.00 we will sell them for

ARTESIAN WATER ON MEXICAN LAND

WILL MAKE AN ARID EMPIRE FERTILE

In the State of Chihuahua Alone Are 22,000,000 Acres of Land Awaiting Irrigation, Declares Dr. C. F. Z. Caracristi

Chihuahua, Mexico, Oct. 28.—Great interest is being taken in the possibility of artesian water in the state of Chihuahua. Gen. Luis Terrazas, the owner of over 9,000,000 acres of land, and the reputed cattle king of the world, during the last two years has drilled over 60 wells on his lands. Governor Clay Creel, who owns 3,000,000 acres of land, has put in a number of wells on his land and the larger land owners are following their example. But all of this work has been done with a view to supply water for cattle. Now the attention of the land owners is gradually awakening to the possibilities of artesian water for agricultural and horticultural uses.

Within the last two months the firm of Head & Wilson, the only contractor for the state who drilled the Creel, Terrazas and other wells and are operating a number of drilling machines, have gone to the expense of employing a geologist and engineer to study a vast area with a view of locating the water tables and depth of water supply of a part of the state of Chihuahua.

Dr. C. F. Z. Caracristi, who is well known professionally in this section, has been in charge of the survey. Speaking of the water possibilities he says:

Why Water is Needed.
"The value of water for agricultural purposes in Chihuahua may well be understood when it is stated that corn, the staple food of the Mexicans, is worth over $1 American currency per bushel as compared to American corn. This difference is due to the fact that corn in Mexico is sold by the measure, while in the states it is sold by weight. A bushel of standard grade American corn will weigh just 32 percent more than a bushel of Mexican corn. The low price of corn to the Mexican laborer, whose daily average earnings do not reach 50 cents American currency, means much when we consider that the necessity of race suicide has never been considered by the Mexicans and that an average family consists of eight persons in place of five as in the states.

"For over a year the importation of corn and wheat into Mexico has been free. Merchants taking advantage of this leniency on the part of the government have imported large quantities of American wheat and corn into the interior of Mexico. When they had a sufficient supply on hand the government raised the import duty. This year's crop is shorter than in any previous year of record, and corn in the Sierra Madre is selling at 40 pesos per hectolitre, three bushels. It will reach probably 45 pesos before the winter wheat is in like proportion, but the great mass of people do not eat wheat flour.

"All this is only to point out the necessity of increasing the possibilities of agricultural area of the arid part of Mexico.

River Irrigation Inadequate.
River irrigation can never supply enough water to meet the demands of northern Chihuahua, and agriculture can only flourish through irrigation from artesian wells, either flowing or pumped by a hydro-electric system. Every acre that is added to the productivity of the state means cheaper food for the poor.

But that is philanthropy and not business, so far as the larger land owners are concerned. Mexico can never derive a legitimate income from its cattle industry until it can fatten its own cattle. This does interest the land owners.

"Mexico ships to the United States many cattle in the form of bone, hides and tallow, but no meat and tallow. These we put on the bones by feeding corn and grass in the north and east.

Cattle Can Be Fattened There.
"There is no reason why cattle cannot be fattened in Mexico. The National Mexican Packing company, limited, of London, in its attempt to pack Mexican beef has discovered that cattle do not mature in the country and is now undergoing reconstruction. The solution of the problem, the only solution, is irrigation by artesian water, either from flowing or pumped wells. Of course this applies to that part of the industry that is arid. I believe that the work I have just completed, if my suggestions are followed out, will add from 100,000 to 200,000 acres of agricultural land to the state of Chihuahua. This should eventually mean 1,000,000 bushels of wheat and corn per year at the lowest calculation.

Vast Grazing Area, If Watered.
"Surrounding these 200,000 acres of agricultural land there are 22,000,000 acres of grazing lands, which if properly watered, are capable of supporting 400,000 head of cattle. The corn product would be more than sufficient to place 100,000 head of cattle in a condition that would not need their owners a vast profit.

"But it will be many years before any effort will be made to fatten cattle in Mexico on a large scale; certainly not until the land is so subdivided that economy in cattle raising will become the prime factor in the industry. This will be particularly so just so long as the price of breadstuffs remains high and no surplus corn is raised.

HOW TO FIND OUT

Fill a bottle or common glass with urine and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment or settling usually indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys. Too frequent desire to urinate, scanty supply, pain or dull ache in the back, should also convince you that the kidneys or bladder are out of order.

What to Do.
There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy, fulfills almost every wish in relieving pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects the inability to hold urine, and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to get up many times during the night to urinate.

The mild, pleasant and extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful results in the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine, you should have the best. Sold by druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes.

You may have a sample bottle of Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, and a book that tells all about it, both sent absolutely free by mail. Address, Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing be sure to mention that you read this advertisement in the El Paso Daily Herald. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

The Real Problem Now.
But the most important problem that Chihuahua is that of being able to furnish uncontaminated water for the city for domestic purposes. Each summer the water from the Chivisicar valley that supplies the city collects a vast toll in the form of human lives, through typhoid fever and similar contagions. Never will this death rate be reduced so long as this particular water is used.

"The Chivisicar dam, costing over 1,000,000 pesos is a beautiful piece of engineering construction, but unless it is abandoned as a source of city water supply the city death rate will continue to be out of proportion to the good climate and other advantages that the region possesses from a sanitary standpoint. As a source of domestic water supply the present system is a failure that can never be corrected owing to the filthy conditions that exist over the hydrography system. These can not be remedied and the water is the same as the one that the city of El Paso already realized, namely, the use of artesian water.

"While it was not within the province of my report to call attention to this feature and I have not done so, yet the bold and ghastly fact remains that the local government is neglecting the important item of protecting human life against preventable contagious diseases.

"The question of a suitable water supply for domestic and agricultural purposes has been fully solved by my surveys, but as the information is confidential I cannot state in particular

MORRIS COMPANY BUYS TWO RANCHES

Will Put 40,000 Mexican Cattle on Ranches Near Roswell, N. M.

Roswell, N. M., Oct. 28.—The Nelson Morris Packing company, of Kansas City, has become the owner of the 17 ranch, containing 360 acres, belonging to the Cass Land & Cattle company, W. G. Urton, manager; and the X-X ranch, 1680 acres, of which John Shaw was owner, located 50 miles north of Roswell, on the Pecos river. The deal was made by the Totzek-Finnigan Realty company of this place. T. C. Whitley acted for the packing company.

The ranch was started for the Cass company in 1884. In 1887, they bought the Cox cattle, between 11,000 and 12,000 head, and 1600 acres of land and 150 horses, for $110,000. Later, they bought the "Y Y," the "Cross 4" and the "Bar Z" brands.

The new owners are bringing nearly 40,000 head of cattle from Cartagena, Mex., to place on the range, which extends nearly 35 miles along the Pecos river.

TO GROW COTTON ON SINALOA LAND

Big Plantation to Be Put in Adjoining a Vast Sugar Estate.

Cullacan, Mexico, Oct. 28.—Jose Farjas, a Spanish cotton grower of the state of Durango, has leased a tract of Redo lands in the valley of the San Lorenzo river and will grow cotton there. The tract adjoins the Eldorado sugar plantation of the Redo interests, and is watered by an irrigation canal from the San Lorenzo river. The canal when completed, will distribute water to 10,000 hectares, or 24,700 acres.

Up to this time there has been no effort to grow cotton on an extensive scale in Sinaloa, notwithstanding that many sections of the state are particularly adapted to cotton cultivation.

Mr. Farjas is a resident of Gomez Palacio, is the owner of the Nazareno and Campana haciendas in the state of Durango, and was for a number of years identified with the Tlahualilo cotton plantation, now the property of James Brown Potter and associates.

The Redo land holdings in the San Lorenzo valley total fully 100,000 acres. They were acquired many years ago, at very small cost, by the late senator Joaquin Redo, father of Diego Redo, the present governor of Sinaloa.

The Eldorado plantation is one of the most important sugar properties of Sinaloa. In the last sugar season came from 1500 acres was harvested, and in the coming season there will be 2000 acres of cane to cut. The grinding capacity of the Eldorado mill is from 600 to 700 tons of cane daily. The average yield is 70 tons of cane to the hectare, with an average of 8 percent of sugar to the ton of cane.

AMERICANS BUY HENEQUEN LAND

Cullacan, Mexico, Oct. 28.—The Confitas ranch of 10,000 acres, midway between Cullacan and Maasatlan on the Southern Pacific, has been taken over by Henry A. Scott, of San Bernardino, Cal., and W. S. Hunt, of Cullacan. It has been controlled for several years by Mr. Hunt, through his association with former governor Eriberto Zazari.

The Confitas property is noted for its wild henequen. The plants grow to a height of 10 feet, and some of the leaves attain a length of eight feet. The fiber of the wild plant is longer, stronger and whiter than that produced in Yucatan. Hundreds of Mexicans in that district make their living by extracting the fiber by hand and making it into hammocks, ropes, saddle blankets, girths and brushes.

Messrs. Scott and Hunt propose to install modern machinery for fiber extraction.

MAKE BIG PROFIT FROM DESERT LAND

Mesa, Ariz., Oct. 27.—Two years ago, J. D. and E. G. Attaway, father and son, settled on desert land south of town, and after 14 months residence paid $125 per acre for the land. This week they sold the ranches for $25 per acre to the Messrs. Harst of Kansas.

COMING OF WATER WILL INCREASE ALFALFA ACREAGE

Las Cruces, N. M., Oct. 28.—Most of the work of cleaning the community ditches has been completed and the farmers of this valley are anxiously awaiting the arrival of water. It water comes down the river soon, there will be several hundred acres of wheat sowed this fall, besides a considerable acreage of new land to be put in alfalfa. What has done remarkably well and the acreage this fall and next spring will be greatly increased.

Expect Mexican Oranges To Fill Gap In Market

The price list of vegetables and fruits remains stationary as compared with last week's quotations, with nothing new on the market and nothing eliminated. The Mexican orange crop is beginning to ripen and pretty soon there will be plenty of them and ripe oranges on the local market to fill the gap between now and the ripening of the California navel.

In the grain market, corn and oats are both off ten cents on the cwt., with corn selling at $1.50 and $1.60 wholesale and retail, and oats at $1.60 and $1.70. No other changes are noted in the grain and alfalfa market.

PARKER TAKES ANOTHER SHOT AT ROOSEVELT

Former Candidate for President Accuses Former President of Shielding Himself by Attacking Courts.
Ogdenburg, N. Y., Oct. 28.—"Col. Roosevelt feels that government of laws should give way to government by strong men, so he has an open campaign for what he calls new nationalism, with the executive as the steward of the public welfare, the congress and the judiciary as subordinate instead of coordinate departments of government and the national government in possession of the power now enjoyed by the people of the state," declared Alton B. Parker here last night.

"The plea of necessity for this evolution he bases in large part upon the failure of government, so far, to protect the people from the combinations to restrain trade and to prevent competition. He says that they have come to stay, and we must have a strong man to regulate them. May I digress a moment to say that we witnessed what a strong man may do when the colonel, as president, gave consent to the absorption of the Tennessee Coal & Iron company by the United States steel corporation.

"There is law enough now. What is needed is its enforcement. To relieve himself from public censure, because more organizations to prevent competition came into existence during his presidency than at all other times in the history of the country, Roosevelt entered upon a tirade against the courts, which he still continues.

"The patriotism of the people is being aroused and partisanship brushed aside in the presence of danger. Ballots are bullets when the constitution of the United States is attacked at home, while bullets are our ballots if the foe be foreign."
